SERVICE IN ARMY FAVORS STUDENTS

Men Returning From Army Or Navy Get Credits According to Value of Training Received.

(Special to the Advertiser)
Granville, Jan. 23.—Students returning to Denison university from service with the army or navy will be given credit on their college work for length and character of the service rendered, the university, according to an announcement made Thursday by President Clark W. Chamberlain.

No exception will be made, though the credits are based upon the nature of training received. Those who went through officer's training schools naturally benefit by the courses of study there completed and by the credit awarded there, President Chamberlain said.

The association of American colleges adopted the recommendation of uniform action by all the colleges of the country, which uniformity does obviate the necessity for handling individual cases according to their merits, and each returning student finds himself fairly treated.

Gay Case who went to Great Britain, Columbus, for an operation, is recovering nicely and hopes soon to be at home again.

Mr. and Mrs. Kussman have returned from Europe and will be at home at 100 Spruce.

The class of 1919 is training this winter in the Red Cross books which have been purchased to get along with only twenty which Mrs. Ray was able to procure in Columbus. Three books have been purchased.

HAULS RATIONS TO MEN ON RHINE

Newark Boy With Ammunition Train Hauls Less Deadly Cargo In Motor Truck.

"It seems strange not to hear any more big guns as it is very quiet now. Once in a while a dough boy celebrates with his six-shooter," wrote Corporal Alphonse Lee E. Reynolds, Co. D, Third Ammunition Train, to his sister, Mrs. Charles R. Jones.

Reynolds is a Newark boy and was connected with the Packard sales station in Columbus at the time of his enlistment July 4th, 1917. He went to France last May.

"Well, I suppose everybody is happy since the 'big show' is almost over, and it is needless to say that we all are over here. It seems strange not to hear any more big guns. It is very quiet now. Once in a while a dough boy celebrates with his six-shooter," wrote Corporal Alphonse Lee E. Reynolds, Co. D, Third Ammunition Train, to his sister, Mrs. Charles R. Jones.

LABOR SITUATION HERE IS STILL UNFAVORABLE

The labor employment situation in the city still is decidedly unfavorable, the federal employment bureau it was stated today that there are between 500 and 600 men without employment in the city, and the prospects for an early resumption of work at the manufacturing plants is not very bright.

The American Motor Truck company is taking on some of its force, the older employees being given the preference. The Rugg company has not resumed work, but the Holopane company stated it hoped to soon start operations.

On the request of government contractors for carpenters several were sent out of the city, but when a large force was ready to go word was received canceling the order.

BLAMES YANK DESERTERS FOR ASSAULTS IN PARIS

(Associated Press Telegram)
Paris, Jan. 23.—Theft and acts of violence and armed attacks are increasing daily in Paris, according to the Matin, which declares that the demobilization of allied troops is bound to have the effect of further increasing acts of lawlessness. The Matin continues:

"Many former prisoners now freed from the army are hurrying to make up for lost time. This band of law-breakers is increased by contingents from the armies of our allies. Such a statement need not offend the susceptibilities of our friends beyond the channel and across the Atlantic. A national army means the recruiting of all classes, good as well as bad.

"During the last week the night assaults in the Paris district were reported as having been committed by deserters from the American army."

MOTOR PLANT HAS BIG FORCE AT WORK

Conditions are resuming the normal at the American Motor Truck company, and a large force is busy at the shop doing the work of repairing the cars to the basis of manufacturing.

With the number of men employed at the plant as large as it was at the war, it is larger than the pre-war period.

PORTUGUESE FEAR FOR COLONIES IN AFRICA

(Associated Press Telegram)
Paris, Wednesday, Jan. 23.—Portuguese circles in this city are greatly concerned over the situation in their country. They fear especially, that their possessions in Africa, forming the third largest colonial empire on that continent, may come into question and that some European state may point out that Portugal being in a state of anarchy, is unfit to rule other peoples.

The Portuguese hope that the delegates attending the peace congress will realize the sacrifices sustained by Portugal, which they say were very great compared with the size of the country and its wealth. They say that Portugal asks only to keep what she already possesses.

If you are growing all the time, and fitting yourself for the larger chances, you need not worry for fear they will fail to present themselves.

TWO DOORS WEST OF THE SQUARE

THE ECONOMY STORE
STORE CLOSING SAT. 8:30

Don't blame the dealer for the shortage of Victor products — the Government needed us!

To the thousands of people who have been temporarily inconvenienced through their inability to get the Victrola and Victor Records they wanted; to Victor dealers everywhere who in the face of this extreme shortage stood loyally by us and steadfastly refused to offer inferior substitutes, we feel that an explanation is due for this scarcity of Victor products.

Upon the entrance of the United States into the great world war, the Victor Company immediately decided to do its utmost in making war materials. It voluntarily offered its entire plant whole-heartedly to the Government, regardless of the fact that its regular production would be seriously curtailed, regardless of the setback which would temporarily result to the business it took years to build up, regardless of the profits which would necessarily be sacrificed.

It would have been possible to hold off—to keep right on with our regular work and let others do war work. But the Victor Company is a thoroughly American concern, and it does things in the big characteristic American way. It chose to help the Government to the very limit of its resources.

The Government recognized the high state of perfection and thoroughly modern equipment of the gigantic Victor factories, and made more and more use of them until as much as 90% of the plant was at one time engaged in war work. If it were possible to disclose Government secrets and tell of the scientific experiments which were conducted and of the devices and products which were manufactured, the public would appreciate what a valuable help the Victor plant was to the Government in winning the war.

Those parts of the Victor factories which continued to produce Victrolas and Victor Records could not, of course, supply even a reasonable amount of Victor products to the public. And the shortage was made even more pronounced because thousands of Victrolas and still more thousands of Victor Records were diverted to the use of America's fighting forces on land and sea—to entertaining and inspiring them, as well as to teaching them French and wireless telegraphy through the Victor special study courses.

Great though the sacrifices were which the Victor Company willingly made to help its country in its hour of need, we would not have it otherwise. And though the inability to get Victor products was exasperating to the public, we do not believe they would have had us shirk our duty. We count it an honor that we were able to serve our country. We are gratified that the Government found our factories of such value.

And with the coming of peace, we recognize the great task that devolves upon us. It is imperative that we supply as quickly as possible those people who rather than accept inferior substitutes, decided to wait patiently until they could get the genuine Victor products they wanted. Added to this there is the increased demand that will come from new sources, for thousands of our returning heroes have learned to appreciate what the Victrola means in their daily lives. The demand upon our resources will be greater than ever, but we return to our chosen work with full confidence in our ability to meet the needs of the future.

So while the Victor plant did its full share in helping to win the war, it is now again bending its energies to supplying the musical needs of the nation—of the whole world. From a gigantic bee-hive of war-time activities, the Victor plant again resumes as the greatest musical industry in the entire world.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING.

One of the most interesting sections of a newspaper is the classified advertising. If one wants to know what the home folks are doing and how they are living, much can be learned from these little notices.

A paper like the Advocate, which presents in each issue a large number of classified ads, thereby proves it comes close to the daily life of the people. It is evidence that the newspaper goes very universally into the homes, and is thoughtfully read and studied.

These columns could be used to promote an amazing amount of useful exchanges. Probably every family in Licking county has articles of furniture it would like to get rid of, but which would have considerable value to someone. And about every family would like to buy more household articles.

Now the families that would like to sell would get a little ad in the For Sale, they would get rid of their discarded stuff and realize quite a little money on it. Then they could go to the furniture dealers, and get some fine new piece on which they have set their hearts.

There are always people who would like to live in some other section of the town, or have some different kind of a house. They fear they could not sell or rent their property advantageously. A little ad in the right column would quickly enough bring inquiries for their own property, another little one would bring them offers of the kind of thing they want.

And so one could go on indefinitely showing how these ads reach into the most intimate corners of daily life. Almost any human want, if purchasable for money or within the reach of ambition, can be satisfied by this means. If you doubt that Advocate classified advertising will bring results, try it.

BRINGING THEM HOME.

The soldiers are getting pathetically anxious for home. They would give more for the sight of the dingiest old railroad station in the home town than for all the medals and decorations the enthusiastic French could hang on their many bosoms. The zest of the game has all gone now. Also they are keenly anxious to get back to work doing something.

The army has always been cursed by too much red tape. It is the tendency of army life to put orders through many hands. The individual officer obeys instructions precisely, but his experience tends to make him slow to take individual initiative. This spirit always works to delay. If demoralization were placed in the hands of business men, they would accomplish it quicker.

The home people are very anxious to get their boys back from France. Yet they want the thing over there to be a finished job. The world will not be safe until the Germans have had to pay for their crimes. When just out of spite and malice, they cut off grape vines and fruit trees, and perpetrated other destructive acts of no military value, they showed a spirit that must be taught a lesson. To make sure their atonement is complete, a large force of soldiers must be maintained there for a time. The Americans must furnish a fair share of that army.

The world has given up its blood and treasure because it wanted to assure a stable peace. But to get a peace treaty that amounts to something, it must be signed by some government that really represents the German people. No gang of ruffian Bolsheviks could sign a treaty that would be worth anything.

The allied armies may yet have a job on their hands to hold down the criminal elements, and enable the German people to hold up a democratic constitutional government based on law and order. The boys will not want to come home leaving things half done, so they would have to go over again next year.

MIGRATORY BIRD PROTECTION.

The United States Supreme Court has set aside the so-called migratory bird law as unconstitutional. This leaves many of the most valuable bird species, which protect growing crops against insects, without protection. Owing to the lack of proper statutes in some states, the pot hunters can now go out for bird pie at the cost of the people at large.

As a result insects will destroy a large part of many crops. The only offsetting advantage is that the wealthy people will get their bird dinners, and the gunners will get the fun and the money for killing these useful creatures. Now many intelligent sportsmen take part in this form of hunting. It is largely confined to Indiana and other ignorant people, who do not realize that birds are the principle protection against insects for the great food crops.

The American people should at once remedy the fault found in this law. It has proved not a very difficult matter to get the United States constitution amended. An amendment the civic value of which is so obvious could be put through in a short time.

The protection of migratory birds is difficult to handle because the people in one state may not realize how essential that variety is to crops produced in some other state. So the people of one locality keep on killing them thoughtlessly, with no conception of the harm they do. They do not realize that the birds they kill are needed to protect from insects the crops upon which they are depending.

Or an energetic movement of farmers organizations could no doubt get all the states to adopt uniform bird protection statutes.

The Grange or other representatives of the farmers should agitate the matter. Action needs to be taken that will protect the birds that are necessary to save next summer's crops.

Spirit of the Press

Lynch Law in Berlin.
Dr. Karl Liebknecht and Frau Clara Zetkin have been lynched by the people of Berlin. Undoubtedly the lives of these two rebels and inciters to murder were justly forfeit to the guillotine. But the lynch law is the guilty of the lynchers. Mob murder is plain murder, regardless of the guilt or innocence of the victims. While one can only deplore the bloodthirstiness of the Berlin mob there can be no two opinions as to the value of the work of these two people. They dealt thus with Lenin and Trotsky when they were at the beginning of their ascendancy. Russia would have been spared much agony and the world would not have been confronted by the Bolshevik problem of today. Anarchy, brainless and speechless, and the roar of the guillotine, but it does not menace the peace of the world.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Emphasizing the Monroe Doctrine.

Opposition to the Monroe doctrine in the United States senate is not sound Americanism and we should be sorry to precede such a sentiment. We do not know the League of Nations, but we do know the Monroe doctrine. The Monroe doctrine is well understood. As it stands it needs no interpretation among the nations. If we relax its vigilance we acquiesce in interminable discussions as to the position owed to Europe and the position owed to America. Senator Borah does well to insist upon the inviolability of the Monroe doctrine. If the League of Nations reinforces the doctrine, we cannot object. But that is another matter. We have the Monroe doctrine and we know its power. Why trade it for something we know nothing about when we can have it and the other too.—Chicago Tribune.

Gompers Has No Use for Bolsheviki.

Samuel Gompers, the best known of the loyal and patriotic union labor leaders in this country, has sailed for Europe to accept the post of general co-leader, in order to exert his influence against the advancement of Bolshevism in that war-stricken and much-distressed country. The leader is aware that if this man, who has already helped to build up the country to some extent, should come to prevail here as it prevails in Germany, the last state of the honest and self-respecting workingman will be worse than the first. Questions of wages and hours are gradually adjusting themselves in this country. Peace conditions may actually reduce the wages scale in some cases, but such reduction will be in direct relation to the lowering of the general cost of living. In any case, neither satisfactory industrial nor wage conditions could survive a reign of Bolshevism.—Rockester Democrat and Chronicle.

"But I liked the one about the beautiful Marchioness," she says. "Which would you deuther be, Maggie," she says. "A Countess or a Marchioness?" she says. "Why I don't no," says Maggie. NO TRIAL NEEDED.

(Philadelphia Record.)
It is needless for French jurists to ponder on the possible conviction of William II. of high crimes and misdemeanors. He is not amenable to any existing Court. To organize a Court to convict him, to produce evidence against him when the verdict is assured in advance, to proceed according to the rules of the criminal law against a man who is the embodiment of a nation, would only look vindictive. It would give the accused the appearance of being a victim or a martyr; it would make sympathy for him.

The case has got to be treated in a much broader way, and higher principles have got to be invoked than those which provide punishment for the individual wrong-doer. What William II. did he did not in his individual capacity, but in his legal capacity as German Emperor. It is an ancient legal maxim that the King can do no wrong; that is, the sovereign is not amenable to the laws of his own country. He is amenable to the laws of some other country. During the war, William was never within British jurisdiction, and when he was within the boundaries of Belgium and France the native administration had already ceased to exist. He was there only as an act of war, and war is not subject to the ordinary punishment. It is subject to defeat and the terms of the conquerors.

The French jurists to whom M. Clemenceau submitted the question of William's guilt think he could only be punished as an accessory; that is, as the subordinate of his own subordinates. This would be a lame and impotent conclusion. The legal machinery has been disregarded.

Of course he can be extradited. If he were a political offender he would not have a right to Dutch protection; he would only have a claim on Dutch generosity. It is customary not to surrender political offenders on extradition proceedings, but the political offender has no title to protection. Any nation would be justified in giving up a political offender if his protection threatened the safety of the country, and if the Allies and America demand William, Holland will give him up.

But William is not a political refugee. He has not fled to Holland to escape the vengeance of his own Government. He fled thither to escape capture by the Allies and Americans, and the war is not over. If he had not fled he would have been a prisoner of war, and his enemies have a perfect right to demand that the fugitive be surrendered to them.

Once in their possession it is a matter for the peace conference to decide what disposition shall be made of him. He has abdicated, and his people apparently do not want any more of him. Therefore he cannot be restored to his abandoned and overturned throne. To execute him or lock him up in prison would only be done under his nose for the purpose, and that would put the crown of martyrdom upon his head. The simple and proper method of procedure is to demand his surrender by Holland, which, as a matter of fact, would be grateful to the peace conference for taking him off its hands, and having possession of him, to decide where he would be safest for the rest of his days. Napoleon was not tried and convicted and sentenced to St. Helena.

Pointed Observations

About the Gas Rate.
Editor Advocate:—In the report of the City Council's meeting of last Monday it was reported that the first reading of the ordinance for the increase of gas rates was read. I take it for granted that what I wrote for your paper on the 16th inst. was not proved by any of their constituents of the various wards, they represent, and that therefore I am alone in opposition to raise of rates. Well, even so I wish to protest against what I consider the work of the monopoly which controls the gas and electric power of this city and I believe that it is because the people do not think or consider what is to their interests that the councilmen are led to do the bidding of the A. G. E., which is the name of the company. Yes, the American Gas and Electric is able to control the council as long as the people either do not think or are too indolent to think. But when it will be too late they will do a lot of useless thinking as they did when they stood mute as dumb animals while the fathers voted nine cents for electric fluid when they could have got it at half if they had watched and directed their chosen representatives. Then they began to call these food fathers ugly names and even said they took bribes, and they will do the same again. But let me ask, why do honorable councilmen have to be watched and warned to do their sworn duty? Is it not their duty to investigate the earnings of the A. G. E. at this section of its field of operations and find out if it is really losing or gaining? Would it not be worth their while to see whether the gas and electric people are giving any of their earnings to this city which is doing so much for them. Are we not giving them the use of our streets, sidewalks and alleys to put up their poles and lay their pipe lines and making all our citizens contribute to their welfare? We refuse a peddler or any other one the right to use without a license any part of our city to sell their goods, but this big millionaire corporation which has only a temporary bank for depositing its large revenues here and carries all its profits away has not only the privilege of using our city's property but can control its government. Furthermore, I would like to know on what part of their capital stock these foreign stockholders are paying taxes. Are they taxed with the same rigid rule as the rest of the property owners of this city? Finally, I object to any one or all of the city fathers putting on our backs any further burden without having the consent of the people. It appears to me that the people have lost their right to move their heart and courage and that they have become utterly indifferent to every thing. If they differ with me I want to know it and if I am wrong I want to be set right. You who read this should take one side or another. No good citizen is ever careless for the public good.

THE PNEUMONIA OF INFLUENZA

Deadly Pneumonia Often Follows Common Chest Colds.

This pneumonia, while apparently very severe, may disappear in a night under proper treatment, and the best way for a person afflicted with influenza to avoid pneumonia is to get a hot steam bath and stay there until the physician permits you to get up. While in bed, the back, throat and chest should be liberally covered with Fokela and flannel applied to insure the necessary heat for its absorption. Allow a little fresh air in your mouth three or four times daily. If soothers and lozels the inflamed mucous membranes and permits the easy expulsion of phlegm.

IMPORTANT.—In some districts the demand for Fokela has been so heavy that there is a temporary shortage. The public are warned against buying cheap substitutes and to insist on Fokela, as all wholesalers are supplied and your druggist, if he is sold out, can get it on short notice. Evans' drug store.

NOT A PARTICLE OF DANDRUFF OR A FALLING HAIR

Save your hair! Double its beauty in just a few moments.

"Danderine" makes your hair thick, glossy, wavy and beautiful.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, feeling one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.—Adv.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night to keep tight. Try them, 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.
